

CONCLUSION

Give each participant an opportunity to share their takeaways for Romans and help guide the responses to be a motivation for others in the group moving forward.

- Which section of Romans 1-8 do you feel was most impactful to you? Why?
- How has your view of God been refined in studying Romans? Explain. (Question 12)
- Challenge participants to clearly articulate how they saw God versus how they view him now. How has this changed how they interact with God daily?
- How has Romans challenged you to more faithfully make disciples? What are specific practices you've changed or plan to implement as a result? (Question 13)
- How did you develop or grow as a result of being in community? (Question 14)
- Ask participants to describe something they were most thankful for in having community the past semester.

Leading this week may be difficult as people tend to dismiss reviews as old news. It will be important to encourage people to spend time in prayerful reflection of this Romans study prior to the group. This is not only for a good discussion, but more fundamentally so that they might see how they've been impacted by these biblical truths to more fully worship and serve.
